Section F: Comprehension 1 (10 marks)

Read the following text carefully and answer the questions that follow.

They were purple, they were enthusiastic and they were everywhere. These individuals made sure the 28th South East Asian (SEA) Games ran smoothly, the audience was contented and the athletes were well cared for. They carried out their duties under the searing heat diligently and most importantly, with a smile for everyone around them.

5

Team Nila – the 23 000-strong volunteers from Sport Singapore – had filled roles ranging from performers at the opening and closing ceremonies to ball boys and girls, photographers and even crowd control. These volunteers had also sacrificed long hours over the past six months to train and prepare for the Games proper.

10

Ms Siti Aidawani, who recruited the volunteers, believed that the 28th SEA Games would not have been a success without them. "I think they make or break the Games," the Sport Singapore cluster manager confided. "We can have everything planned out but the execution is dependent on them. Many of them have a lot of passion and their commitment is quite astounding."

15

The range of Team Nila's roles visible to athletes and audiences was merely the tip of the iceberg. With a strong sense of pride and attention to detail, the volunteers had put on a seamless performance at the Games.

Section G: Comprehension 2 (10 marks)

Read the passage carefully and answer the questions that follow.

A frail old man lived with his son's family. The old man's hands trembled, his eyesight blurred and his steps faltered. Grandfather's condition made eating difficult when the family dined together in the dining room. Peas rolled off his spoon and onto the floor. When he grasped the glass, milk spilled onto the tablecloth.

5

The son and daughter-in-law became irritated with the mess. "We must do something about Father," said the son. "I've had enough of his spilled milk and food on the floor." Thus, the couple set a small table at the corner. There, Grandfather ate alone while the rest of the family enjoyed dinner together. Since Grandfather had broken a dish or two, his food was served in a wooden bowl. Sometimes his eyes watered as he sat alone. Despite that, the only words the couple had for him were sharp reprimands when he dropped a fork or spilled food.

10

The seven-year-old grandson watched it all in silence.

One day, the family was in the living room watching the grandson playing with wood scraps on the floor. The father asked his child lovingly, "What are you making?" Just as lovingly, the boy responded, "Oh, I am making a little bowl each for you and Mama to eat with when you are older." The seven-year-old smiled and went back to work.

15

The words struck the parents hard and they were speechless. Tears started to well up in their eyes. Though no word was spoken, both knew what ought to be done.

20

That evening, the couple took Grandfather's hand and gently led him to the family table. Since then, they had enjoyed every meal as a family. For one reason or another, neither the son nor his wife seemed to care any longer when a fork dropped, milk spilled, or the tablecloth soiled.
