Friendship

Ethan and Jake were never friends. In fact, they didn't get along at all. Ethan thought Jake was too bossy, and Jake thought Ethan was too careless. They always argued in class and avoided each other at recess.

One day, their teacher assigned them to work together on a volunteer project at the local animal shelter. Neither of them was happy about it, but they had no choice. When they arrived, the shelter staff asked them to clean the cages and feed the animals. At first, they worked in silence, but everything changed when a playful puppy escaped from its pen and ran toward the busy street.

Without thinking, both boys sprinted after the puppy. Jake dove to catch it just in time, and Ethan helped him up. They looked at each other and laughed, realizing they made a good team.

After that day, Ethan and Jake became friends. They continued volunteering at the shelter, and their arguments turned into friendly jokes. They learned that differences don't have to keep people apart. Sometimes, all it takes is one moment of teamwork to turn rivals into best friends.
