A Successful Plan

Liam's class was given an assignment: create a plan to improve the school and present it. Liam and his friends decided to make a recycling program. They wanted to place recycling bins around the school and teach students how to use them.

First, they made a poster explaining why recycling is important. They also created a slideshow with pictures of how trash harms the environment. After practicing their speech several times, they were ready for the presentation.

On the big day, Liam and his team stood in front of the class. At first, Liam was nervous, but as he spoke, he felt more confident. The class and teacher loved their idea and agreed it should be put into action.

After getting permission from the principal, they placed recycling bins in every classroom. They made announcements to remind students to use them properly. Within a few weeks, the school looked cleaner, and less trash was wasted.

Liam felt proud that their plan had worked. He realized that success comes from good ideas, teamwork, and hard work. The recycling program became a lasting part of the school, proving that one small plan can make a big difference.
