Model Composition

Doing something for the first time

Last weekend, my family planned a special day together at the beach. I was very excited because it was going to be a new experience for me. Not only were we going cycling and having a picnic, but my mother had also promised to teach me how to cook a simple dish.

When we arrived at the beach, we first rode our bicycles along the path. The cool breeze and beautiful view made the ride enjoyable and exciting. After that, we laid out a mat and prepared for our picnic. My mother then showed me how to cook some simple food using a portable stove. She guided me step by step, with lots of patience, as I carefully followed her instructions.

Later, my grandmother joined us and taught my siblings and me how to make origami. At first, I found it difficult, but she encouraged me to keep trying. Soon, I was able to fold a paper crane by myself.

In the end, I felt proud of what I had learnt. It was a wonderful day filled with laughter and fun. This new experience created many fond memories that I will always treasure.
